Uncle Louis called yesterday and told me the following:

SHUMOVSKY (of Paris, France) has returned from his visit to the Ukraine. He reported that he stopped by to see BAZHAN in Kiev in the editorial office of the Biochemichniy Journal to ask whether BAZHAN would agree to publish in the journal the speech SHUMOVSKY delivered at the World Poultry Congress in Kiev. BAZHAN was out, but a younger man who introduced himself as the assistant editor, Ivan Dzyuba, talked with him and promised that the speech would be published in the journal. SHUMOVSKY was delighted to meet DZYUBA. He had a long conversation with him in the corridor at which time DZYUBA told him all about the arrests in the Ukraine and about the 200-page treatise he had sent, along with a coveringletter, to Shelest and Scherbytsky. SHUMOVSKY expressed regret to Uncle that he did not take the document out with him because there was no control at all at the border. He plans to correspond with DZYUBA and hopes to find some way to get the document. DZYUBA told him there were no arrests being made at present, but that people were being investigated and interrogated.
